My Name is [REDACTED] I am a production operations consultant for a small Alberta based Oil Company. I started using Sirius solar units back in June of 2014 for treating wells down hole with such chemicals as H2S scavenger and paraffin inhibitor. I like the idea of how mobile and easy to use they are.

It allowed me to use them on flowing wells without having to worry about fuel gas. Once we installed pump jacks we could pick them up and move them to the next new drill. The pumps them self's we have had no problems with to date. We have two units now and I would not hesitate at buying more. They have proven themselves over and over again in our field.
