To Whom it may concern,

[REDACTED] has worked with Sirius Instrumentation and Controls Inc. on multiple occasions. The Sirius chemical injection systems get built to specification and far exceed both [REDACTED] and our end user's expectations. The controller's automation features allow for chemical savings and accuracy that are unachievable with competitor's pumps. As well, anytime the requirements of an application change, Sirius technical support is short a call away to straighten us out.

When [REDACTED] business involves chemical injection, whether new construction or replacing a competitor's pump, Sirius is always our first choice.
